The Policy Governance® Model

Overview

Board leadership requires, above all, that the Board of Directors provide vision to the association. In order to do so the Board must first have a vision of its own job. The model of governance adopted by the NEC Native Education College Society Board of Directors is called Policy Governance®. Under this model the Board frees itself from unnecessary, time-consuming tasks and focus on the real business of governance, that is creating, sustaining and fulfilling a vision. The model is explained fully in “Boards That Make a Difference” (Dr. John Carver, Jossey-Bass, 1990) and “Reinventing Your Board (Dr. John Carver, Jossey-Bass, 1997).

Under Policy Governance®, the board crafts its values into policies of four types: Ends, Executive Limitations, Board-President Relationship, and Governance Process. Except for what belongs in bylaws or enabling statutes, these categories of board policy contain everything the Board has to say about values and perspectives that underlie all organizational decisions, activities, practices, budgets, and goals. Because values permeate and dominate all organization life, designing policy in this way presents a very powerful lever for expressing board leadership.

Ends

The Board’s most important job is to define the Vision and Mission and mission-related statements which clearly set out the desired results the Ends. What human needs are to be met, for whom, and at what cost? Written with a long-term perspective, these policies embody the Board’s long-range vision. The Board evaluates staff performance based on how well the results of the organization’s activities match the desired Ends.

Executive Limitation

While the Board prescribes what Ends it wants the organization to achieve, it also sets limits on the means by which the staff operates. These limits are principles of prudence and ethics that form a boundary on staff practices, activities, circumstances and methods. In Executive Limitations policies the Board states clearly what it will not allow which empowers the staff to use their full creative powers and skills.

Board-President Relationship

In addition to providing the organization with a vision and defining what constitutes inappropriate staff practices, the Board sets policies about how it relates to staff. The Policy Governance® model envisions the President as the link between the Board and the rest of the staff. The President is the Board’s sole employee. These policies clarify the manner in which the Board delegates authority to the President as well as how it evaluates his or her performance.

Governance Process

In these policies the Board determines its philosophy, its accountability, and the specifics of its own responsibilities. The effective design of its own processes ensures that the Board will fulfill its three primary responsibilities: maintaining links to the ownership, establishing the four categories of written policies, and assuring staff performance.

The mission of NEC Native Education College Society is to provide culturally appropriate and supportive learning environment for Indigenous learners, within available resources.

- a) To develop, manage and operate an Indigenous education facility.
- b) To facilitate the participation of people of Indigenous ancestry in educational and community affairs.
- c) To help meet the educational needs of Indigenous peoples through the development and delivery of culturally relevant and academically rigorous curriculum and innovative programs and services that are responsive and responsible to Indigenous peoples. Graduates receive recognition in the form of a certificate, diploma or degree.
- d) To promote the well-being of Indigenous peoples at the community level through the development and delivery of educational programs and activities in cooperation with Indigenous communities.
- e) To provide facilities that are accessible to community groups to further the mission and goals of the Society.
- f) To develop programs, facilities and methodologies that provide access to skills, knowledge and technology appropriate to the future well-being of Indigenous peoples in cooperation with agencies of government and non-governmental organizations.
- g) To improve understanding between Indigenous groups, to inform the general public of Indigenous issues, and to inform the Indigenous communities of the purpose of education and the programs and services of the Society.

Policy Statement:

The purpose of monitoring is to determine the degree to which board policies are being fulfilled. In addition to monitoring, the Board shall set out, annually, a process to evaluate the President's performance on compliance with the Boards policies on Ends and Executive Limitations.

Monitoring Performance

1. Monitoring will be as automatic as possible, using a minimum of board time.
2. A given policy may be monitored in one or more of the following ways:
 - a) Internal Report: disclosure of compliance information to the Board from the President.
 - b) External Report: compliance information provided by an external auditor, or other party who is chosen by and reports directly to the Board. Such reports must evaluate President performance only against policies of the Board, not those of the external party unless the Board has previously indicated that party's opinion to be the standard.
 - c) Direct Board Inspection: a direct inspection in which a designated member or members of the Board assess compliance with board policy.
3. The board will state the method(s) and frequency for the regular monitoring of Ends and Executive Limitations policies. However, the Board can choose to monitor any policy, by any method, at any time.

Evaluating Performance

1. The Board shall express its expectations to the President in the form of:
 - a) policy statements on Ends and Executive Limitations.
2. The process for evaluating the performance of the President will normally include the following elements:
 - a) a standing committee to guide the performance review process related to monitoring reports
 - b) a meeting with the President to discuss the performance evaluation process
 - c) a review of monitoring data for the past year
 - d) input from the Board Members related to monitoring reports
 - e) Board approval of the final performance evaluation report and any related board actions, including compensation for the President
3. The annual performance evaluation will be documented.

Policy Statement: In recognition of Aboriginal control of Aboriginal education;

An Aboriginal perspective will be acknowledged, respected and implemented through policy. An Aboriginal presence of knowledge and thinking will be presented through the NEC Native Education College Society.

ABORIGINAL CONTROL

As an Aboriginal board and as an Aboriginal organization we embrace the following core values and beliefs, particularly in our relationship with NEC Native Education College.

We recognize that as Aboriginals, we are many people. We celebrate the diversity of our ways as a source of strength within our nations. Thus in diversity we find unity.

We recognize that nothing is barred from consideration as long as it does not intrude into the lives of others. From this unity arises our respect for Mother Earth, upon which we all depend, our respect for the ways and opinion of others, even if we do not share those ways or opinions.

We will ensure that our ways, as well as the ways of others will endure. From this unity grows our knowledge that in respecting others, we respect ourselves; our capacity to appreciate each other as we are, and our resolve not to see our ways compromised.

We will uphold these ideals in the governance of the college to the best of our abilities. From this unity arises our responsibility to our present generation and generations yet unborn and our gratitude to the generations that have come before us; that we will rely on example and persuasion rather than authority and force when change is considered; and that we are determined to explore the limits of our understanding.

The philosophy of the NEC Native Education College Society is founded on the principles upheld by the Elders of our respective nations. This philosophy will guide our future development. The values of NEC support the teachings of our Elders – to protect our spirituality, culture, land and people.

The following specific values will guide the deliberations of the Board:

Prayer
Respect
Stewardship
Sharing / Reciprocity

Prayer

We will always open and close our meetings with a prayer, in recognition of who we are as diverse peoples, and why we are here - to enhance and support the mission and goals of NEC.

Respect

We respect each individual as a human being and know that everyone in the circle is an equal. We recognize that everyone has something worth saying and will allow them to voice whatever they have to contribute to the discussion. We will engage in discussion respectfully, rather than interrupting or being defensive.

We respect not only the individual but also the group in making the best use of the time at hand. We respect everyone in their capacity to participate by ensuring that they have all the information beforehand. We respect by acknowledging and appreciating the differences within the circle whether it be Aboriginal or non-Aboriginal. The Board wishes that the respect its members show to each other will serve as a model for the way all individuals in the organization treat each other.

Stewardship

We value and believe in responsibility for the individual, the family and the community. We recognize the relationship that we have with the earth and that this is embodied in our traditional environmental knowledge and teachings. We want the work that we do to reflect these principles in their broadest sense and to contribute to the sustainability of our institution, community, environment and land.

Sharing / Reciprocity

Sharing our knowledge, understanding and teachings, in the context of mutual respect are important components of our worldview. As living beings, we strive for harmony within ourselves and with our surroundings. We value and believe in the mutual exchange of knowledge and new ideas that is of benefit to our community.

EXCELLENCE IN EDUCATION

Relevance

We believe that in order to be relevant to Aboriginal communities, NEC must provide educational programs which:

- 1) respond to Aboriginal learner needs;
- 2) prepare learners for meaningful roles in Aboriginal communities as well as general society;
- 3) incorporate Aboriginal culture and tradition throughout curriculum and in the program delivery;
- 4) meet with the emerging needs of Aboriginal communities;
- 5) fill the gaps in education available to Aboriginal people;
- 6) provide knowledge, skills and understanding which meet the educational goals and aspirations of Aboriginal people;
- 7) provide opportunities toward the overall goal of Aboriginal self-government;
- 8) are reviewed and revised in a timely manner to ensure academic quality and community relevance.

Respect

We believe that education provided by NEC must be respectful of individual, family, community and cultural strengths, skills, knowledge, values and diversity; and that learners come to NEC with a commitment to transform themselves through respect for themselves, their families, their communities, their cultures and NEC.

Responsibility

We believe that it is our responsibility to provide quality, relevant education that:

- 1) is responsive to the changing needs of Aboriginal people;
- 2) attains technical, academic, administrative and fiscal excellence within a framework which honours, respects and enhances cultural diversity; and
- 3) is accountable to the community.

Reciprocity

We have a commitment to quality education based on the worldview of Aboriginal people who have thrived and continue to advance at a demanding, dynamic and exciting pace.

We will allow adequate time for the expression of all points of view and ensure all board members have equal opportunity to express opinions. Work by consensus assumes that board members agree to support the majority decision.
5. Board members are expected to attend all board meetings. If a member is absent for 3 meetings during the year the board will review the member's continued participation on the board.
6. When discussing any operational issues, all queries will be directed to the President.
7. Board members are expected to participate to the best of their ability in community activities of NEC.
8. Board members will respect confidentiality.
9. Board members are expected to represent the interest of NEC not their individual interests.

Policy Statement:

The role of the Chairperson is to ensure the integrity of the Board's processes, and to represent the Board to external parties. The Chairperson is the only board member authorized to speak for the Board, except when he/she delegates this authority to another board or staff member.

Specifically, the responsibilities of the Chairperson are:

1. To ensure that the Board governs consistent with its own rules and those legitimately imposed upon it from outside the Society.
2. To act on behalf of the Board in a manner which falls within and is consistent with any reasonable interpretation of the Board's policies on Governance Process and Board/President Relationship.
3. To ensure there is an agenda for each board meeting and that the agenda and meeting content deals only with issues that belong to the Board.
4. To chair board and special general meetings as required and ensure deliberation at meetings will be timely, fair, orderly, and thorough.
5. To ensure board meeting materials are distributed well enough in advance to allow board members adequate time to prepare.
6. To call for the resignation of board members who are unable to fulfill their responsibilities.
7. To be an ex-officio member of all standing and ad hoc committees of the Board.
8. To present an annual report and any other related documents.
9. The Chairperson may delegate his/her authority but remains accountable for its use.

Policy Title: G. Conflict of Interest

Approved By Board: April 7, 2000

Reviewed By Board: April 6, 2019

Policy Statement

A conflict of interest arises when a board member has potential financial interest (either direct or indirect) in any transaction, contract, or agreement that NEC considers or becomes involved in. A conflict of interest also arises when a board member’s outside duties, interests, or obligations may or does differ fundamentally from his/her obligations as a member of the Board of Directors of NEC.

1. The procedure for dealing with conflict of interest will be as follows:
 - a) every board member with a conflict of interest regarding any matter to be considered by the Board shall immediately disclose the nature and extent of the conflict;
 - b) disclosure shall be recorded in the minutes of the board meeting, giving notice of the conflict and a general description of the nature and extent of the conflict;
 - c) a board member with a conflict of interest will leave the boardroom and will not participate in the discussion.
2. Board members must not use undue influence to obtain for themselves, family members, or close associates, employment within NEC.
3. Former staff and students may not be elected to the board until a minimum of six months after leaving NEC.

Policy Statement:

The Board may establish committees to help carry out its responsibilities. To preserve the integrity of the “wholeness” of the Board, committees will be used sparingly to do pre-board work, that is, to prepare policy alternatives and implications for board consideration.

Furthermore:

1. Board committees may not speak or act for the Board except when formally given such authority for specific purposes. Board committees will not be delegated authority that has been delegated to the President.
2. The Board will establish a “terms of reference” for each standing and ad hoc committee. The “terms of reference” shall include the following elements:
 - a) products or results that the Board expects
 - b) authority of the committee
 - c) timeline
 - d) membership of the committee
3. The Board shall evaluate biennially, all standing and ad hoc committees to determine if each is still the most effective method of work for the Board in that area of responsibility.
4. The Committee Principles policy applies only to committees that are formed by the Board. It does not apply to committees formed under the authority of the President whether or not these latter committees include board members.
5. The Conflict of Interest policy applies to committee members.
6. The President and Chairperson are ex-officio members of all standing and ad hoc committees and task forces.

The board believes that excellence in governance requires the commitment of resources.

1. Training will be used to orient new board members and candidates for membership on the board, as well as to maintain and increase existing members' skills and understanding of governance.
2. Outside monitoring assistance may be arranged so that the board can exercise confident control over organizational performance. This includes but is not limited to the financial audit.
3. Outreach mechanisms may be used to ensure the board's ability to listen to NEC viewpoints and values.
4. Costs may be incurred for the following:
 - a) training, including attendance at conferences and workshops.
 - b) fiscal audit and other audits of NEC performance.
 - c) surveys, focus groups, opinion analyses, and meeting costs.
 - d) board meetings.

Policy Statement:

The board is responsible for linking with society membership. The primary purpose of the Board’s linkages is to share information about and get input into ENDS. Other reasons and benefits include:

1. To fulfill accountability to society membership.
2. To get support for NEC.
3. To articulate and promote the governance model.
4. To educate people about education issues and the work of the Board.
5. To build relationships.
6. To inform the Board’s wisdom for decision making.

We will contact individuals or society members and interested stakeholders in order to establish dialogue about ENDS.

Individuals or groups will be chosen on the basis of: a) being a broad based representation of the owners b) having knowledge of or influence on the issues the Board is expecting the organization to impact.

The Donor Bill of Rights

Philanthropy is based on voluntary action for the common good. It is a tradition of giving and sharing that is primary to the quality of life. To ensure that philanthropy merits the respect and trust of the general public, and that donors and prospective donors can have full confidence in the non-profit organizations and causes they are asked to support, we declare that all donors have these rights:

1. To be informed of NEC’s mission, of the way NEC intends to use donated resources, and of its capacity to use donations effectively for their intended purposes.
2. To be informed of the identity of those serving on NEC’s governing board, and to expect the board to exercise prudent judgment in its stewardship responsibilities.
3. To have access to NEC’s most recent audited financial statements.
4. To be assured their gifts will be used for the purposes for which they were given.
5. To receive appropriate acknowledgement and recognition.
6. To be assured that information about their donation is handled with respect and with confidentiality to the extent provided by law.
7. To expect that all relationships with individuals representing organizations of interest to the donor will be professional in nature.
8. To be informed whether those seeking donations are volunteers, employees of NEC or hired solicitors.
9. To have the opportunity for their names to be deleted from mailing lists that NEC may intend to share.
10. To feel free to ask questions when making a donation and to receive prompt, truthful and forthright answers.
